Says Strong Merchant Marine Would Be Effective Second Line of Defense During War

CITES BRITISH ADVANTAGE

Senator Declares Expenditore of $30,000,000 Every Year Is Justified for Protection

By Universal Service

A strong merchant marine is a commercial necessity in time of peace and would constitute an effective "second line of defense" in time of war, Senator Calder, of New York, told the Senate yesterday in a speech supporting the ship subsidy bill.

BRITISH ADVANTAGE.

Senator Calder pointed to the enormous advantage possessed by Great Britain over this country by reason of her powerful merchant fleet. He produced figures showing that the total number of steel ships of over 10,000 tons operating in British commerce today in 194. as compared to 50 under the American flag and 23 under the flag of Japan. This excludes ships 25 years

In the event of a war which might line Great Britain up against the United States, the Senator said, if both navies were lost, Great Britain still would possess this second line of defense, which, properly armed, would ravish the seas and drive from the ocean every vessel possessed by the nations with which she was at war.

Senator Calder asserted that on the ground of providing the Government with such a fleet to be available in time of emergency, the expenditure of $30,000,000 a year as a subsidy to keep the fleet on the seas was fully justified. That the cost of one battleship, but it would rehabilitate the merchant marine and keep it under the American flag.

DIFFERENCE IN COST.

The need of the subsidy was emphasized further by the statement that it costs 25 per cent less to operate ships by foreign countries than by the United States. Senator Calder pointed out that sup-plies for the vessels are cheaper, upkeep is cheaper, and wages for seamen are less. Enactment of the subsidy measure is in direct accord with the pro-tective tariff, Senator Calder con-He said:

From every point of view, I am convinced that there is no possi-bility of our maintaining an ocean-going fleet to carry Amer-Ican products overseas without government aid. Our Democratic friends provide for the levy-ing of a duty to give limited protection. Our party believes in a higher tariff and on the same theory we come to the Sen-ate and insist that we are power-less, as a nation, to operate in competition with foreign nations unless we encourage this business by Government assistance, in exactly the same manner as levy-ing a tax upon imports for the purpose of e of production se of equalizing the costs

We can not blame men for purchasing where they can buy the cheapest. We can talk of patriotism all we will. We can argue that people should send their products abroad in American control of the control ican ships, but they will not do so if they can ship in foreign vessels for less money. It is human nature and common sense to buy where they can get the lowest prices.

CHARGES HUGE WASTE.

CHARGES HUGE WASTE.

Senators on the other side, some of them Republicans, lose sight of the ultimate advantage to their country. We have spent $3,000,000,000,000, at least $2,000,000,000 of which was thrown away, because of our short-sighted policy of the last fifty years. The interest on that wasted $2,000,000,000 alone would have supplied much more than the needed Government aid for years to come. But today we find Senators who will plunge their country into will plunge their country into the same condition which con-fronted us prior to 1917. When war comes again, as it will some day, if we fail to give Govern ment aid to our merchant marin may not have Great Britain to carry our men overseas the next time. She may be on the other side and we will be help-

Fear Brings Failure and Confidence Wins Success, Says Coue

Dr. Emile Coue, the noted French Auto-suggestion Healer, has won great fame by his beliefs in ouring ills by mental suggestion. He numbers among his patrons E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlove, the Shakespearean actors, who are now at Dr. Coue's sanitarium at Nancy, France. His theories are being expounded in a remarkable series of articles appearing daily in The Washington Herald. (Dr. Coue's name is pronounced as though spelled Koo-ay.)

WE are what we make ourselver and not what circumstances and not what circumstances make us. Whoever starts off in life with the idea: "I shall succeed," always does succeed because he does what is necessary to bring alout this result.

If only one opportunity presents itself to him, and if this opportunity has, as it were, only one hair on its head, he seizes it by that one hair.

Further he often brings about, unconsciously or not, propitious circumstances.

He who, on the contrary, always doubts himself never succeeds in doing anything. He might find himself in the midst of an army of opportunities-with heads of hair like Absalom-and yet he would not see them and could not seize a single one, even if he had only to stretch out his hand in order to do so.

And, if he brings about circumstances, they are generally unfavorable ones.

Do not blame fate for failure: you have only yourself to blame. POWER OF IMAGINATION.

People are always preaching the doctrine of effort, but this idea must be repudiated. Effort means will, and will means the possible entrance of the imagination in opposition, and the bringing about of the exactly contrary result to the desired one.

Study the following principle. which in substance I have outlined elsewhere. On its correct understanding and application may depend your success or failure:

When the Will and the Imagination are in conflict, it is always the Imagination which wins.

Such a case is only too frequent, and then not only do we not do what we want, but just the contrary of what we want

For example, the more we try to go to sleep, the more we try to remember the name of some one, the more we try to stop laughing, the more we try to avoid an obstacle, while thinking that we can not do so, the more excited we become the less we can remember the name, the more uncontrollable our laughter becomes, and the more surely we rush upon the

MAN'S GREATEST FACULTY.

It is then the Imagination and not the Will which is the neet important faculty of and thus it is a serious mistake to advise people to train their Wills: it is the training of their Imaginations which they ought to set about.

By believing oneself to be the master of one's thoughts, one becomes 'so.

Always think that what you have to do is easy, if possible.

By DR. EMILE COUE. + In this state of mind you will not spend more of your strength than is necessary; if you consider it difficult, you will spend ten, twenty times more strength than you need; in other words you will waste it.

I cited, recently, in these articles, the case of a workman who, by faithful application of Auto-suggestion changed his mental attitude so that in place of brooding on suicide he was fired by thoughts of improvement and so did improve himself in mental attitude and in his work that his employer promoted him. Here is another case of a workman whose impaired efficiency was restored so that he was put on the road to recovery.

A CASE OF "NERVES."

CASE NO. 7-M. X-, post office telegrapher at Luneville. Having lost one of his children in January, 1910, the trouble produces in him a cerebral disturbance which manifests itself by uncontrollable nervous trembling. His uncle brings him to me in June. Preliminary experiments followed by suggestion. Four days afterward the patient returns to tell me that the trembling has, disappeared. I renew the suggestion and tell him to return in eight days. A week, then a fortnight, then three weeks, then a month, pass by without hearing any more of him. Shortly afterward his uncle comes and tells me that he has just had a letter from his nephew, who is perfectly well. He has taken on again his work as telegraphist which he had been obliged to give up, and the day before, he had sent off a telegram of 170 words without the least diffi-culty. He could easily, he added in his letter, have sent off an even longer one. Since then he had had no relapse.

FEAR AND FAILURE. Below is an excerpt from a letter from a young woman school teacher whose fear of failure, when facing examinations invariable produced failure. She came to me in 1915 with the result as outlined in her own words-briefly Confidence, in place of fear, had given Success in place of Failure:

The final results of the English secondary certificate have been posted up only these two hours, but I hasten to write you about it, or at least about it so far as it concerns myself.

I passed the oral examination with flying colors scarcely feeling the nervousness, which used to make me sick before such tests. Those who heard me. they said later, drew from my recitation an impression of complete confidence. The jury placed me second (among 200 candidates) and I am infinitely grateful to your help, which undoubtedly gave me a great advantage. Copyright, 1922, by the American Library Service.

Tomorrow's article in The Her-ald will consist of aphorisms and observations as given sponta-neously by Dr. Coue in the course of his "seances," and noted down by Mme. Emile Leon and others of his disciples.

In no instance has it been found necessary for lack of funds to separate mothers and children. It is greatly to be hoped that the present year.

Beginning in 1910 with a request for $2,096 only half of which was obtained before the new year, because the appeal was so new, the opportunities have grown in their requirements with the higher cost of living and the more adequate treatment and care given the families included within the list, until today $13,056 is being asked for.

MORE ASKED NOW.

Last year $13,156 was asked for and $12,317.15 actually received. It is hoped that this year it will not be necessary to announce that the complete sum required is lacking. One-third of this amount is now in hand, namely, $4,479. Number Fourteen is rapidly approaching its quota, while several others are on a fair road to success.

FIXES FEDERAL CONTROL.

The bill, according to Mr. White, "asserts Federal control over radio communication between the several States and with foreign countries, and requires that no interstate or foreign communication shall be carried on except in accordance with a license granted by the Secretary of Commerce.

Secretary Hoover at present nas no specific power in the granting of licenses. Confusion resulting from two or more sending stations transmitting over the same wave length has resulted in litigation in various parts of the country.

The only objection to the measure is likely to come from Democrats who point out that absolute radio control vested in a member of a Republican cabinet would give this party a great potential advantage in the broadcasting of political speeches.

CREATES ADVISORY BOARD.

CREATES ADVISORY ROARD

It is intended to provide an advisory board to be appointed by visory board to be appointed by President Harding, upon which will be represented the various government departments dealing with radio and members of technical and amateur bodies.

In the event of a dispute between Secretary Hoover and the board or its members the final decision would be rendered by the President.

It, is not intended that the ad visory board shall have any politi-cal complexion, but the Demo crats may ask representation on it so that they may look after their campaign interests in radio communication.
